

Dear my lovely gumbies of V'ruach BBG #201, What is a sister? Truly think. What makes each of us sisters? A lot of us don't have much in common. We are a large, diverse group of girls that somehow are all connected in ways unexplainable by the laws of physics. So what is it that makes us sisters? I could go all-factual on you with the oxford definition of sisterhood and evidence on how we fulfill it, but to me, sisterhood is deeper than the definitions make it out to be. A sister is a friend, a mentor, a guidebook and a watchdog. A sister sees things you don't, and is the one that even after not talking to for months is first for you to call in a crisis. I am proud to call you girls my sisters. Each and every one of you has been the best sisters I could ask for, now let me do the same for you. A sister is responsible for working through everything with you, side by side, going through the guidelines together, and helping you be you. Being your typical, Jewish, BBG, sister, I want to do everything I can to help you embrace and embellish your Judaism as a crucial part of what makes you YOU. I feel confident that as Yehudiah I can be the best sister I can to you, and entwine you to your roots and community service and to connect you to those, which you are distant from. Judaism is more than a word. It is a word that has come and will become a crucial part of you. A part without which, you would not be you at all. Lets plant the best roots we can to make us gummy girls into the most beautiful trees in the forest.

Submitted with Undying love for each and every one of you, I remain your DAMN proud candidate for the high and honorable position of chapter Yehudiah,

Nicci Chaya Mowszowski
