My

Sister

B'nai Brith Girls.

We are the next generation of Jewish women; and we have the power to change the world. Yes, every single one of us has the power to enact change and impact our world.

From the moment I was born, my parents instilled a strong Jewish faith into me.

I went to synagogue as a kid, had Friday night dinners, and celebrated all the holidays. As a young child, I wasn't always so keen on participating in Jewish practices. Now, as a teenager who has lived in the land of Israel and learned about the Holocaust in Poland, I couldn't be more thankful for my influential upbringing. I'm proud to say to you that I know who I am as a Jew and I know my place in the Jewish world.

My Sister B'nai Brith Girls.

My goal as your 57th Regional Sh'lichah, is to help every single one of you find your place in the Jewish world, because we can't start making an impact until we truly know ourselves.

Submitted with undying love for Judaism and changing our world together,
I humbly remain,

Sarah Rivka Rosenfeld
