Chapters

Counterparts- Communication with counterparts is a necessity to organizational success. In order to provide great programming within our chapters, I will be in constant contact with counterparts, scheduling at least one call every week to check up on programming. This way, I can make sure that all my counterparts are being successful and that if they are having problems, I will be able to find out before the problem becomes worse.

Programming- Quality chapter programming bonds BBYO members to their chapters and gets members from the chapter to attend events on the regional level. In order to increase chapter brotherhood as well as the number of attendees at the regional level, I intend to implement a two step programming system that gradually builds up the excitement starting at the chapter level so that brothers will not want to miss attending regional events. By setting up this system with my counterparts, we will plan programs that first introduce people to more about BBYO then follow up programs that build up the excitement.

Conventions

B'Yachad- This is a time for the leaders of our region to come together and work to make the year great. I will set up all of my counterparts for success throughout the year at B'Yachad and make sure they are ready to go out into the region with top class programming by teaching different programming techniques necessary to succeed. By providing the necessary skills, all counterparts will be prepared for a great year of programming

Fall- Fall Convention brings the fiercest spirit competition of the programming year throughout the order. Chapters compete for the gavel, cup, or trophy through programs designed to test their passion and abilities. As Regional S'gan I will innovate this competition by bringing forth new challenges to each chapter to really find out who is supreme in our region. I will test both the physical and mental abilities of all participants to decide the winner and incorporate the varied strengths of our convention body

Kallah- Kallah is a time to thaw away the ice of Winter by gathering as a region once again. Building on the exceptional quality from Fall Convention I will reach out to the community to bring in multiple different and engaging speakers to captivate the minds of participants, educate our convention body and again draw us together as a brotherhood

Spring- Among other responsibilities, it is my duty to make sure that Spring Convention, the last convention for all of our seniors, is memorable. In order to ensure this, I will work closely with the Senior Programming steering group to make sure that the Senior experience is incredible. I also will ensure that all other attendees enjoy themselves with programming, such as establishing a separate programming track to engage members not involved in the election process. This end of the year programming will help solidify the brotherhood and enhance the likelihood of continued attendance for our chapter and convention bodies for next year can change the world.”

In order for the Regional Board to be as successful as possible, each member must work together to reach their highest levels. I will work with each member in any ways necessary to help them reach their goals. Here is how I can help each board member:

Godol- Acting as the right hand man and stepping in when the Godol needs help, whether it be delegating responsibility or planning initiatives

Moreh- Helping plan AIT programs and membership drives from my experience as Moreh as well as helping to lead brotherhood separates for Kallah

Mazkir- Help maintain the various social media outlets that we utilize as well as help take pictures for the PR team and uploading for the enjoyment of the region

Shaliach- Assist in leading and writing service programs for both Friday night separates and Saturday morning region wide services.

Gizbor- Help in coordinating region wide fundraising for Text-A-Thon and March Madness as well as providing insight for designing regional Shuk

Rakkaz- Help with coordination of Beau and organizing StandUp and SpeakUp initiatives
